Transforming Research into Impact

Emory's inaugural Public Scholarship Academy is a groundbreaking, four-day program designed to equip faculty with the tools and expertise needed to communicate their academic work to diverse audiences. This initiative bridges the gap between scholarly research and public discourse, ensuring that research has a meaningful, far-reaching impact.

Program Highlights

- Connection, Purpose & Clarity: This workshop with the Alan Alda Center for Communicating Science is designed to help experts engage and inspire diverse audiences through effective, audience-centered communication.
- Podcasting Masterclass: Participate in an immersive, full-day training with Public Radio Exchange (PRX), learning to create compelling audio content that resonates with diverse audiences.
- Media Training: Led by the experts at TVP Communications, this day long workshop will equip you with the tools to excel in writing op-eds, leveraging social media, and mastering television and radio interviews.
- Interactive Media Panel: Gain insights and best practices from top communications professionals on reaching broad and diverse audiences.
- Personalized Coaching: Benefit from one-on-one sessions tailored to help you apply new skills to your unique research focus.

EMORY
UNIVERSITY

Center for Public Scholarship and Engagement

Established in 2023, the Center for Public Scholarship and Engagement is committed to fostering a culture where scholarship thrives beyond academia. Following the success of IDEAS Festival Emory, featuring Grammy-winning producer Jermaine Dupri and 40 speakers, the CPSE continues to empower scholars to connect with communities and share knowledge in impactful ways.
